Preference ordering takes things in a list and puts them in order.

A utility function will take an object and attaches a utility number to said object.